Her Majesty's Attorney General - v - Tina Maria Le Gresley

A

BAILIFF: Miss Le Gresley, you are placed on probation for three years. You did a very stupid act, as I am sure you realise now. You will be placed on probation for three years, to live as directed where your probation officer tells you, to be of good behaviour during that time and if you offend again, you will be brought back to this Court to be punished, not only for that offence, but for this one. Very well, you're put on probation.
