NOTES TO PROSPECTIVE TENANT

NOTE 1

To be valid this notice must be served before the creation of a tenancy agreement. A short Scottish secure tenancy will not exist if a valid notice has not been served.

NOTE 2

A short Scottish secure tenancy has many of the features of the Scottish secure tenancy but there are also some differences. It can be offered under any of the grounds laid out in schedule 6 of the Act.

Where the short Scottish secure tenancy is granted under paragraph 1, 2 or 2A of schedule 6 it will last for 12 months unless the term is extended by 6 months under section 35A of the Act. An extension may only be made where you are in receipt of housing support services and the landlord has served a notice in terms of section 35A(2) of the Act giving you two months' notice of the extension including the reasons for the extension. At the end of the 12 or 18 month term the short Scottish secure tenancy granted under these paragraphs will automatically convert to a Scottish secure tenancy unless the landlord has taken steps to recover possession of the house.

NOTE 3

A landlord of a short Scottish secure tenancy has special rights to repossess the house. If a landlord terminates the tenancy by issuing a valid notice in terms of section 36 of the Act, the landlord gives you at least 2 months' notice (or a longer period if the tenancy agreement provides) of the landlord's intention to repossess the house the court must grant the landlord an order allowing the landlord to evict you if the landlord applies for one at the end of the tenancy.

In the case of a short Scottish secure tenancy granted under paragraph 1, 2 or 2A of schedule 2 of the Act the notice in terms of section 36 must include a statement of the obligation(s) of the tenancy which the landlord considers to have been broken.

Also, a landlord of a short Scottish secure tenancy can raise proceedings to repossess the house in terms of section 14 of the Act under any of the grounds set out in Part 1 of schedule 2. You must be given a valid notice under section 14 which provides at least 4 weeks' notice prior to the landlord raising proceedings for recovery of possession.

NOTE 4

The circumstances under which a short Scottish secure tenancy may be offered are set out in schedule 6 of the Act. In summary these are:

Lets to persons against whom an order for recovery of possession on the grounds of anti-social behaviour in relation to a tenancy in Scotland, England, Wales or Northern Ireland, has been made within a period of 3 years prior to the service of a notice that a short Scottish secure tenancy may be offered;

Lets to persons where they or other members of their household are the subject of an anti-social behaviour order granted under section 234AA of the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act 1997 (c.46) or section 4 of the Antisocial Behaviour etc. (Scotland) Act 2004 (asp 8);

Lets to persons where they, other members of their household, or a visitor to their house has behaved in an antisocial manner towards, or harassed, another person residing in, visiting or carrying on business in the locality of their house within a period of 3 years prior to the service of a notice that a short Scottish secure tenancy is being offered;

Temporary lets to persons moving into the area in order to take up employment;

Lets to persons on a temporary basis pending development affecting the house in terms of the Town and Country Planning (Scotland) Act 1997 (c.8);

Temporary lets to homeless persons⁵ for tenancies of 6 months or over (lets to homeless persons for tenancies under 6 months are covered by schedule 1 of the Act, i.e. tenancies which are not Scottish secure tenancies);

Temporary lets to persons receiving housing support services (i.e. as defined in section 9 of the Act);

Temporary lets to persons who own other property to enable arrangements to be made in respect of that property to allow the person's housing needs to be met.

The Scottish Ministers may modify this list by Order made under section 34(3) of the Act.

NOTE 5

If you do not agree that the tenancy offered by this notice should be a short Scottish secure tenancy you have a right of appeal to the courts under section 38 of the Act.

If you agree to take up the tenancy after your landlord has served this notice on you, your tenancy will be a short Scottish secure tenancy. You should keep this notice in a safe place along with the written document setting out the terms of the tenancy which your landlord must provide under section 23 of the Act once the terms are agreed.

NOTE 6

If you have questions about this notice, speak to your landlord or contact one of the following:

- Shelter Scotland
- your local Housing Advice Centre
- your local Citizens Advice Bureau
